150 LIVES SAVED IN EARLY FIRE BY TWO POLICEMEN

At Their Own Peril They Plunge Through Flame to Give the Alarm.

WOMEN DOWN LADDERS

Two Carried to Safety While Many Children Are Rescued Over Roofs.

Policeman Blake of the East One Rundred and Fourth street station eard a crash of glass near dawn toay, saw a burst of flame shoot from the Jacob Kahn shoe store at Ninetyeighth street and Third avenue and within five minutes he and Policeman Schlimmermeyer, who came racing up from his post a block away, were doing the work of a whole platoon in getting 200 dazed men, women and children out of a big "double-deck" tenement.

The shoe store is on the ground floor of the five-story tenement, Nos. 1714 and 1716 Third avenue. Fifty or more families occupied the apartments above When the policemen, after first turning in an alarm, ran to the hallway to ring all the electric bells upstairs the flame; from the store were fanning out or the wings of a sixty-mile Arctic gale and lapping the ends of the iron fire Already the insulation had burned away from the wires connecting the bells and the policemen could see the giare of flames inside the glass entrance door. Without thought of themselves, they burst in and dashed over a zone of fire to the stairway. They heard nobody stirring upstairs and guessed that all of the people in the crowded tenement still slept, unconscious of the dan-

The policemen separated, each taking a long hall, and beating with their nightsticks upon every door, shouting "Fire!" at the top of their lungs. In an instant the hallways began to fill with frant.c. people in their night clothing.

"Go to the roof-the stairway is burning." was the order as crazed folk in their bare feet started to crowd down the narrow staircase toward the blazing pit at the street door. Some rushed for the fire escapes only to find them glowing red in the flames that rushed

Policeman Blake tried to corrat the women and children into a group on the third floor so that he might marshal them to the roof without mishap, but the task was beyond him. Men trampled women and children in a scramble to be first to the air above. Finally Schlimmermeyer held back the men by the force of his arm and stick until Blake had gathered about fifty children

"Old Boy Mac," Known All Along East River, Meets End in a Peculiar Way.

Harry Treasure, known along the East River front as "Old Boy Mac," and as husky a 'longshoreman as ever was, is dead.

"Old Boy Mac" toppled to-day from a Pennsylvania float just off Pier 15. The tide was running strong. Men on a Pennsylvania tug threw him a line and he caught it and made it fast under his armpits. It looked like a sure thing, the saving of the old fellow, who was hard as nails and he was atill blustering and roaring that the water was cold when he was hauled over

Mrs. Vanderbilt had three distinct purposes in mind when the established the model home. She wished to show how beautifully and tastefully a small flat could be furnished on an exceedingly small amount of money-averaging only $50 per room. She wished to give young women already married, or with marriage as their probable future, the opportunity of learning how to hesp a home closn and sweet and nomelike, And she desired to provide these same young women with instruction in the preparation of healthful, appetizing and economical meals.

"Mrs. Vanderbilt offered us the apart furnish it." Miss M. de G. Tren olm, head of the East Si ie Settlement House explained to me, "She asked us to man, out an estimate of the cost of these for nishings. We made two such estimates one allowing $100 as the cost of equip ping completely four rooms, the other fixing $200 as the cost of furnishing Mrs. Vanderbilt accepted the $200 esti mate, and when she decided to give us a five-ro m apartment she allowed an extra $59 for the additional room.

WELL, ALDERMEN, OUT, SAYS GAYNOR

Mayor Writes That Small Councils Give the Better Government in Cities.

Characterizing the Board of Aldermen letter to Hubert Smith of Dewey, Okla., predicts that within a few years the Board of Aldermen "will be done away with altogether."

Mr. Smith of Oklahoma recently wrote to the Mayor asking if, in his spinion, all cities having ten thousand or more population should have a commission orm of government. There is to be a debate on that question in the High School of Dewey and Mr. Smith evidently wants to get up in his class and voice the views of the Solomor of the New York City Hall.

Before plunglag into the subject Mayor Gaynor calls Mr. Smith of Oklahoma to task by stating that the phrase "commission form of govern-ment" is loose, and adds: "What you mean is whether a city should be gov-erned by a small council or a large one.

ONLY ONE CITY UNDER A COM-MISSION. no city in this country being governed by a commission," says the Mayor. "When Galveston was destroyed by flood the Legislature passed an act creating a commission to govern that city. But the courts declared the act unconstitutional and void. Some cities are ruled by a large elected council, called the Board of Aldermen or the Common Council. But of late years the tendency has been to substitute a small one. Some people inaccurately call this
